Allegheny Cemetery is Done. A NICE MONUMENT TO HIGH ART.

The Annual Meeting of the incorporators Held Yesterday.

DONE FOR LESS THAN THE ESTIMATE

The beautiful new Penn avenue gateway of the Allegheny Cemetery was formally opened to public use yesterday, and the annual meeting of the Board of Incorporators was held in the waiting-room, Twenty-three of the incorporators were present and inspected the beautiful monument to architectural art, and expressed their approbation of the complete success of the enterprise and satisfaction with the work done. All joined in saying that it is certainly the finest gateway in America, and some did not want to put the limit there. The last tonches to the structure were hurried in order to have it done in time, and the last artisan had hardly left before the meeting commenced. President Charles J. Clarke read his address and a special report, giving a history of the new gateway on Penn

The Secretary also gave his report, and the members then discussed the advisability of supplying the cemetery with city water, for the lot swners to water plants, etc. William Thaw first opposed it, and said that it was unnecessary, and that difficulty would be had in running the pipes, and graves would have to be descrated. This seemed to be the general sentiment, and the Board of Managers were advised not to put in city water or allow hitching posts or retiring closets to be erected. The present board and managers were re-elected unanimously, as follows:

President, Charles J. Clarke, Managers, William Thaw, John Harper, Charles E. Speer, S. C. McCandless, F. S. Bissell, F. R. Brunot, Secretary and Treasurer, James R. Speer. LONG ON THE WAY, BUT PERFECT.

It has just been nine years since the Board of Incorporators first decided to build the beautiful monument to art, opened to the public yesterday. The whole cost, including architects' fees, was $82,456 09.
Add to this the amount paid for the 434 acres of land upon which the gateway stands, $36,915, would make a total for the entire improvement of $119,471 09. The amount appropriated for the purchase of the property was $40,000, and for the gateway building $80,000; in all, $120,000. Thus it will be seen that the amount expended is within the appropriation. This has all been paid, except about $5,000 not yet due.

The corporators still have plenty of sur-plus on hand, as is shown in the following extract from the Treasurer's report: On June 1, 1886, the ansets were...... $384,613 96 On June 1, 1889, the assets were...... 364,697 41

Showing that the surplus has been de-hitherto been shut from public view, is even more beautiful and novel in its design than the exterior. The floor of the reception room is in mosaics, with a pretty border The windows are of an extra quality and very beautiful. The walls are yet to be ned up with richer colors.

The chief pet of the incorporators has been the iron gateway leading under the archway of the gate house, and it was made under a special contract. It, together with the extra cost of the mosaic floor and extra quality of glass in the windows, cost $4,033 75. It is very beautiful in design—a fitting gate to swing before so beautiful an entrance.

VERY INTERESTING SHOWING. The following is President Clarke's ad-

To the Incorporators of Allegheny Cometery; GENTLEMEN—Our charter requires that at this, our annual meeting of cerporators, a report should be made to you of the condition of the trust held by the Board of Directors, which is now herewith submitted. Aside from the usual routine business transacted by the board at our monthly meetings, the principal thing that has received our attention has been the construction of the new gateway on Penn avemue, of which a full historical account is submitted in a special report.

mitted in a special report.

On July 31, 1888, we made a contract with the Citizens' Traction Company, in which we allowed them to invade our territory in front of the Builer street entrance with a loop or turn for their road. The consideration for this for their road. The consideration for this grant was that they construct an asphalt pavement in front of our gateway at an expense of $6,000 (which has been done), and that a police force be maintained at their expense from April 1 to November 1 each year from 5 o'clock in the morning until II at night. In this connection I might say that this piece of ground has never been fenced in, and has herstofore been overrun with loafers, children and cattle, much to our annoyance. This has now been abated. This contract does not allow cars to stop on our ground only long enough to take on or put off passengers. The contract will expire five years from July 31, 1888, and is herewith submitted.

Our lot holders have erected many beautiful monuments and tombs during the year, at an estimated cost of about $150.000. monuments and tombs during the year, at an estimated cost of about $105,000. There have been sold 68 lots for which we received $20,. 228 50 varying in price from $100 to $1,000 each, showing a falling off in sales of high-priced lots. The intermetts were 955 or 32 less than the previous year. There have been erected 21 monuments, 49 tombs, 278 head and footstones, 4 steps and 224 feet of curb.

CLEARLY A GAIN, ANYHOW.

The labor and expense account show an increase over last year of $3,309 43, being for extra expenditure in making new road to Penn avenue entrance and in grading the grounds about the same. The severe storms have necessitated Our income or receipts from invested capital (county bends, mortgages, etc.) amounted to $23,610 08, or $6,644 51 more than the previous year. Our total cost of keeping the cemetery, including salaries, labor, etc., amounted to $23,080, and amount of work on lots, foundations interments, receiving want and plants. tions, interments, receiving vault and plants was $16,635, leaving a balance of $17,045, which represents the net cost of maintaining the cemetery one year; showing that our income from invested capital amounted to $3,293 6 mor invested capital amounted to $2,28 6F more than our expenses, so that this surplus with the amount received for sale of lots ($20,278 50) has been added to our capital stock.

The greenhouse department, kept up for the accomodation of our lot holders, shows a small profit, and beside furnished 154,300 plants used for ornamental purposes. The question of introducing water into the cemetery, shelter houses, etc., is still under advisement.

There have been no deaths in your Board of Directors, or Board of Corporators during the year, so there are no vacancies to fill in the latter. It devolves upon this meeting of corporators to elect a president, secretary and treasurer, and Board of Managers to serve during the coming year.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

All of which is respectfully submitted, by order of the Board of Managers.

CABLEGRAM FROM PARNELL.

He Advises the Irish Lengue of America They Should Postpone Their Convention Until After Parliament Mects. The Patrick Egan Branch No. 191 of the imerican branch of the Irish National League has received an important circular from President Fitzgerald. It is dated Lincoln, Neb., June 4 and the substance is appended. It is addressed to the officers and members of the National League of America;

The National Convention called for the Sth and 10th of July at Philadelphia is postponed until after the present session of the British Parliament, in compliance with the cabled advice of Mr.

Parnell.

I have for some time past been in correspondence with Mr. Parnell and other Irish leaders, urging that Mr. Parnell and some of his ablest colleagues should attend the Philadelphia Convention on the dates unmed above, but the replies did not encourage the hope that we should have an Irish delegation at the convention. Finally I cabled William O'Brien on the 27th of May, as follows:

"Urge necessity sending delegation to Philadelphia convention, 9th of July, your presence with Protestant Nationalists would have very beneficial effect. Answer. 'JOHN FITZGERALD."
On the morning of May 28, I received the follow ing cable:

"John Fitzgerald-O'Brien has shown me your
"John Fitzgerald-O'Brien has shown me your telegram. I strongly advise postpone convention until after session of Parliament. PARNELL." until after session of Parliament. Parnell.."

(The names of the executive officers who favor compliance with Mr. Parnell's wishes are given.) I very much regret the inconvenience caused to the Irishmen of Philadelphia by this postponement, and any expense caused thereby will be paid by the national treasurer. I feel sure their patriotism will recognize the wisdom of being governed by Mr. Parnell, and of avoiding any action that might be construed as a revolt against his leadership. A postponement of a similar nature, and for exactly the same reason, took place in January, 1885, at which time a convention to have been held in Chicago was postponed at the cabled request of Mr. Parnell, until after the close of the British Parliament: then about to assemble, and did not convene until August of the same year.

semble, and did not convene until August of the same year.

I was at once convinced that Mr. Parnell must have had strong reasons for cabling the above request, which by every loyal member of the League should be accepted as a command. In order to have the fullest expression of opinion on the subject from the officers and members of the National Executive Committee of the League, the National Scoretary sent the following telegram to each officer and member of the committee:

"Parnell cables strongly advise postpone convention until after session of Parliament. What do you advise? Answer. JOHS P. SUTTON."

The statement that the postponement of the convention is in any way connected with the abominable murder of Dr. Cronin is entirely false; the sole and all-sufficient reason for Mr. Parnell's request is, that an opportunity may be given the Irish leaders to attend the convention without absenting themselves from their parliamentary duties at the present critical time. A listle patience is all that is asked from the Irishmen of Philadelphia. The Irish National League of America was founded to aid and not to thwart the recognized leader of the Irish people. Opposition to his plans at the present time would be next to treason to the Irish cause, and I am confident that no matter at what sacrifice, the postponement of the convention at Mr. Parnell's desire until after the session of Parliament will meet with the unqualified approval of every right thinking friend of Ireland.

Source of the convention at Mr. Parnell's desire until after the session of Parliament will meet with the unqualified approval of every right thinking friend of Ireland.

John T. McKennan Expires in His Drug Store Without Warning.

Mr. John T. McKennan, proprietor o the drug store No. 431 Market street, was noticed, at 2:20 o'clock yesterday afternoon, to sink suddenly to the floor, and as he did not rise, his employes rushed to him and found that he was dead. He was a man of active bodily habit, and noted for his cheer-

Mr. McKennan had been selected as a pallbearer at the funeral of the late Colonel James B. Morgan, which took place yesterday afternoon. He left the store shortly noon, but soon returned and complained to William Martsolf, his chief clerk, that he believed he was going to die. Dr. T. M. T. McKennan, a nephew, and Dr. James McCann were summoned, but five minutes after their arrival Mr. McKenna was dead. He had been troubled with heart disease for years and his nephew says this caused his death. About a year ago a aon, named William, dropped dead on Wood street from the same cause.

Mr. McKennan was a native of Washington county and a brother of Judge McKen-nan, of the United States Circuit Court. He graduated at Jefferson College about 1853 and came to Pittsburg in 1854. He learned Schwartz, of Allegheny, and then started into business himself. In 1863 he became a partner of Mr. George A. Kelly, and subse-quently was one of the firm of McLarren & McKennan, who did business at the corner of Fifth avenue and Smithfield street, in present stand, 431 Market street, 18 about 55 years of age. He married Miss Catherine Arnot, of Philadelphia, about 30 years ago. His wife and six children survive him. Their residence is 6323 Walnut street, East End. Mr. McKennan's social

The first business transacted was the treasurer's re-port of the money received up to date from friends all over the country of the unfortu-nate "Jack" Little, as he was commonly known. To itemize the subscriptions and name the subscribers would be tedious, but the aggregate amount collected and in the hands of the treasurer, C. I. McKee, 18 $2,047 65. Some subscriptions came as far some subscriptions came as far north as Maine and west as Chicago. Treas-urer McKee said he had been in receipt of fifty letters at least, which contained the kind words, "if it had been known at the time that it was Jack, our subscription would have been double," and many more complimentary missives, showing the emi-

REV. CARROLL IN THE HOLY LAND

The Popular Priest Tells of What He and Other Pittsburgers Saw.

PYRAMIDS, JERUSALEM, SMYRNA, ETC.

Rev. Father M. Carroll, pastor of St.

Andrew's Church, Allegheny, and his sister Anna, are expected home soon from their long pilgrimage to the Holy Land, in company with the large party of pilgrims who left this country last February. He did not return with the third section of the party, which arrived last Friday week in New York, but lingered awhile in the Emerald Isle. A short time since, the Sisters in the Convent of St. Andrew's Church received a long letter from Father Carroll giving a history of his pilgrimage from the time he sailed from Constantinople for Athens and the classic land of Greece. The letter is replete with interesting data, incidents and descriptions of the different places visited. Following is a copy of it, with the exception of personal mention and a few things with which the general public are already familiar It is dated Constantinople, May 20, and is as follows: Our programme said we were to arrive at Rome March 14, spending there the time until March 25, when we were to start for Naples, This was carried out. April 26, at Naples, we visited the ruined city of Pompedi. April 27 we embarked on an Italian steamer for Alexandria, Egypt. April 1 (Monday) we arrived at Alexandria and took the train in the after-noon to Cairo. We remained at Cairo three days and sailed on Cook's steamer up the Nile to a landing near

THE SITE OF ANCIENT MEMPHIS. where we got on donkeys and rode to the pyramids of Sukkora, which were the ceme-teries of Memphis. Nothing of Memphis now remains, except a huge statue lying at the place where the Kings lived. We viewed the pyramids, which are in ruins, and the tombs of the sacred bulls. These bulls, the idolatrous pyramids, which are in ruins, and the tombs of the sacred bulls. These bulls, the idolatrous Egyptians worshipped as gods, and after the bull died they interred him in a sorcophagus, body and bones. The sarcophagus was a huge rock of granite, externally in the form of a chest with movable cover. This block of stone was hollowed, so as to contain the bull. We had to descend under ground to a vaulted place, where there are still many of these sorcophagi. See what idolotry brought the most civilized people to do!

After lunch we rode on the donkeys again across the desert to the pyramids of Gizeh, a distance of several miles. I won't tell you now how many falls some persons got from the donkeys. Suffice it to say that none were seriously hurt. This was a tiresome day indeed, and the first experience for most of us in donkey riding. At the pyramids of Gizeh carriages were in waiting to convey us to Cairo. They were a welcome sight. The pyramids of Gizeh are in good repair. They are visible from Cairo.

April 4 (Thursday), we took cars from Cairo at 9 P. M. Traveling all night we arrived at Ismalia early in the morning. April 5 we embarked on a small steamer on the Suez Canal at 7 A. M. and arrived at Port Said in three or four hours, where we dined, and at 5 P. M. embarked on a large steamer for Jaffa. The canal is sufficiently broad and deep to float large vessels and allow them to pass each other. April 6 (Saturday morning) we arrived at Jaffa, the part of the Holy Land, having sailed through a portion of the Suez Canal to Port Said on the Mediterranean. After landing we put up at the convent of the Franciscan Fathers, and hope the first course lay across the beautiful plain of Sharon, which is as level as a floor, very fertile and well cultivated, as cultivation is practiced in that country. We stayed at the Franciscan Convent on Saturday night in Ramleh.

IN MODERN JERUSALEM. April 7. after mass and breakfast, we started for Jerusalem, where we arrived in the evening, singing hymns on our way through the streets to the Holy Sepulchre. The road from Jaffa to Jerusalem is very good-one of the few roads in the Holy Land on which wheeled vehicles can travel. From April 7, P. M., till the 22d, A. M., we stayed at the Convent of the Franciscan Fathers, visiting from day to day the holy places around. April 7 we celebrated mass on the Holy Sepulchre of our Lord for the Young Ladies' Sodality, in which Sister the stand lately occupied by George A.

Splane, deceased, remaining there until the firm was dissolved, when he began at the people of the congregation were remembered. and business acquaintance was very large, and he was held in high estimation both in trade and social circles. FOR JACK LITTLE'S WIDOW.

Louise, all the sisters, all the sodalities and the people of the congregation were remembered. During our stay I visited Bethlehem and said mass in the Holy Grotto, where our Savior was born. Bethlehem is about four or five miles southwest of Jerusalem. You would say that religion was not yet dead in the world to see all the strangers of the different nations that assembled there to venerate our Lord.

April 22, started on horseback from Jerusalem north to Nazareth, and to Beyrout in Syria as the end of our ride. This journey occupied us two weeks. We camped in tents in the open country at night after our day's journey, and stopped to lunch about midday, wherever we found shade to sit under and water for ourselves and the horses to drink. This was the roughest part of our journey, as we had no roads to travel, nothing but paths, through rough rocks, up and down mountains, of which the Holy Land is full. Sometimes we passed over level plains and sometimes along the senshore, and these were the easy parts of the road. Here are the names of some of the places we saw and passed through in our journey: Bethel, Milo, Mts. Gerizim and Ebal, Naplous (the Sichem of the Bible), Jacob's well, where our Lord conversed with the Samaritan woman; Sunam, Jezrahel, Samaria, Sanour (the ancient Bethulla of Judith), Cana, Nazareth (where our Lord lived so long), Tabor (where he was transfigured), the Mount of the Beatindes, Tiberias, Sea of Gaillee; the sites of Capernaum and Bethsaida and the shores of the Lake of Gaillee, [On these last three places very few ruins remain]; Mt. Carmel (where we spent a night at the monastery of the Carmellite fathers), Kaifa, St. John of Aere, Tyre, Sidon (cities of renown). Nebi Jonas (the place where tradition points out where Jonas was disgorged by the fish), and Beyrout, the end of our long ride.

All these places have their history; but it

All these places have their history; but it would be too long to relate it here. Although we had between 60 and 70 persons in saddles, and many of them ladies, who never rode on a horse before, yet no serious mishap befell any, with one exception, and that one was a priest from Colorado, who was kicked by a horse and got his leg broken; and him we had to leave at Nazarethe in hospital. His name is Father Robinson.

PAST FAMOUS PATMOS. Sailing from Beyrout May 7 we passed the Island of Patmos at dusk of May 9, where St. John in exile wrote the Apocalypse. About noon, May 10, we landed at Smyrna, a city of Asia Minor. This was the see of St. Polycarp, a disciple of the Apostles. This church and tomb are shown here still. Smyrna is a large commercial city, with many vessels in its har-bor, and is said to contain a population of 280, 000 inhabitants. It has fine bazaars, theaters, bor, and is said to contain a population of 280,000 inhabitants. It has fine bazaars, theaters, horse cars, carriage roads, gas and electric lights After landing we got into carriages and were driven to the railroad station for an excursion to Ephesia. That city was the see of St. John, the beloved disciple. Ephesia is in ruins. Its site is 54 miles from Sinyrna, across a beautiful and rich plain, planted with vineyards and fruit trees, and interspersed with pastures, in which we saw horses, sheep, cattle, goats and elephants in large numbers. The ruins we observed at Ephesia were: The palace of the kings, the tomb of St. John, two theaters, the agora, or market place, the hippodrome, a large temple with most of its walls still standing, the site of the celebrated-temple of Diana in a hollow place, the church of St. John (converted into a mosque, now partly in ruins), and the citadel, on a hill near the railroad station. It was in St. John's Church the Third General Council of the Church was held. The ruins indicate that Ephesia was at one time a large and ponulous city, and a port of entry for vessels, being connected by a ship canal with the Mediterranean Sea.

In Constantinople, where we arrived on May 13, we went out on the 15th to see the Sultan on his passage from the palace in Dolma magtche on the Bosphorus to Stamboul, to venerate the mantle of the Prophet according to Mohammedan custom. He rode in a covered carriage along with two other dignitaries. We got a glimpse of him as he passed. He is thin in face, of a dark sallow complexion, has a black heard, and is of an unhealthy appearance. The streets on which he passed were strewn over with brown sand and crowded with people. He was preceded and followed by a large number of mounted soldiers, armed to the teeth, while others cleared the streets of people.

The streets of Constantinople are hilly and conclusions.

who has the misfortune to kill one of them lays himself open to a heavy fine and imprisonment. It is your lookout not to hurt them. The dogs seem to understand this and act as if they were masters of the situation.

I think I have spun this yarn out long enough and will end here, with best wishes for all friends and inquirers. Respectfully yours, in Christ,

M. CARROLL.

TEACHERS TO PARIS.

Many of the City School Ma'ams Going to

Their Summer Vacation-School Notes. Now that the school term is over, the eachers of Pittsburg have time to think of how they are going to spend their vacation. Usually the majority have laid out plans long before the close of school days, but this year that scheme has not been carried out, and it is only at the present that the plans for and it is only at the present that the plans for pleasure are being matured, with the exception of #happy few, who will leave next Thursday evening for New York, whence they will sail Saturday morning for Europe. The majority will make a 33-days' trip, whose objective point is the Paris Exposition, but others will do bet-ter and continue the excursion over the continent. When the summer days are about over these fortunate ones will return to tell their sisters of glorious sights, big crowds, seasick-ness, continental dress, etc.

So much for those who are going to Europe So much for those who are going to Europe. What of the others? Well, some will seek the seasade and pay high prices for low accommodations, but will feel happy, for that is characteristic of the Pittsburg teacher, no matter where she goes. Others will form little camping parties and spend a week in the woods. The majority, however, will still be found in their usual home haunts. They cannot afford to indulge in the luxury of looking at Parisian extravagances, nor even of taking not afford to indulge in the luxury of looking at Parlsian extravagances, nor even of taking a glimpse at seaside and other pleasant resorts. To many of them Niagara Falls will be the sound of the fountains in the Allegheny Parks or the gurgle of the soda as the druggist hands it out at 5 cents per glass. The Eiffel Tower to many will be nothing but a visit to some mountain top near the city, and to others the Allegheny or the Monorgahela will be the Atlantic, if their beau consents to pay for a pleasant boat ride. And so on. But why go further? All will enjoy themselves very likely, and start in with renewed vigor in September to train the children committed to their charge.

His central idea is to give to the ward school teachers what his experiences taught him to be the best plan in teaching the first steps in physical science. The subject was further discussed by Profs. Kratz, Bayne, Kennedy and Andrews. A committee consisting of Prof. Andrews, Kratz and Fisher was appointed to confer with the High School Committee, and the Committee on the Course of Instruction on the plan submitted by Prof. Jackman's idea to have the ward school pupils have a knowledge of the plant and animal life around them, so that when they enter High School their knowledge can receive additional building, instead of the preliminary, as it now must be. He is an enthusiast, and stands at the head of his profession, and offers his services gratuitonsly to instruct the Pittsburg teachers in his favorite study. Prof. Jackman has decided not to accept the position to which he has been elected in the Cook County, Chicago Normal School. The other grades will be instructed after step 1.

Will afford you anything you can call for, at prices at least 20 per cent below any other house in the city. The humblest may therefore celebrate—the poorest appear respectable. Come to us, and no where will your limited store go farther.

Important Notice!

In order to accommodate purchasers, our store will be kept open Wednesday evening next until 9 o'clock, and will close on Thursday, the 4th of July, at 12 o'clock, noon.

Look Out for Our Grand Show Window Display on Tuesday!

It is our intention to display in our large corner show window (corner Market st. and Fourth ave.), next Tuesday, a magnificent and costly group of wax work figures representing President Harrison and his Cabinet. It is the only group of the kind ever produced, and is a master-piece of art none should fail to see.

SPECIAL INDUCEMENTS.

Remember, with every $10 Suit and upward, we give a BASEBALL TICKET to any one champion game during the season at Recreation Park, and in our Boys' and Children's Departments, on every purchase of $2 and over we give a fine FIRE-CRACKER CANNON (as illustrated above), neat, new and novel-being worth at least $1 in any ordinary Toy Store.
